

For Law and Order.

It is to be hoped that Governor Folk did not use such a command as to "Clean out the whole business" in his orders to Chief of Police Kieley about Delmar race track. It is a matter for public congratulation that the published story that Police Captain McNamee drew or attempted to draw his revolver when Deputy Constable Lenz attempted to serve a warrant on him is wholly without foundation.

Men in the preservation of law and order should never flit with lawlessness and disorder.

The duty of the police is to make arrests, as ordered, in as peaceful a manner as possible.

Orders about "cleaning out the whole business" coming from so high a source, would be sure to have a disastrous effect on the rank and file of the men, and might lead to a wholly unnecessary tragedy.

Whatever is done to enforce the law in the present squabble on the county line should be done wholly within the boundaries of law and order.—St. Louis Star-Chronicle.

Acute Rheumatism.

Deep tearing or wrenching pains, occasioned by getting wet through; worse when at rest, or on first moving the limbs and in cold or damp weather, is cured quickly by Ballard's Snow Liniment. Oscar Oleson, Gibson City, Illinois, writes, Feb. 16, 1902: "A year ago I was troubled with a pain in my back. It soon got so bad I could not bend over. One bottle of Ballard's Snow Liniment cured me." 25c, 50c, $1. Sold by Arcadia Valley Drug Co.

The Washington correspondent for the Houston (Texas) Post says: "Slowly but surely the almost insurmountable difficulties that will confront the United States in the construction of a navigable canal across the Isthmus of Panama are coming to the surface. Most of those who have gone there in an official capacity while conceding that the difficulties to be met with could be overcome, made no denial that they were great and that it would require the highest engineering skill and the expenditure of an even larger sum of money than was first estimated to bring the work to a successful culmination." Commenting upon the various developments concerning the canal situation, the Houston Post speaking editorially says: "It will not be long at this rate before those who favor a canal will have to contemplate the possible abandonment of Panama and return to the Nicaragua project. In the event of such a shift and in view of all the expense and scandal of Panama, what will the people think of the flurry and fury of eighteen months ago? And what will they think of Mr. Roosevelt's part in forcing us to Panama when the road was clear to the clean and feasible project of Nicaragua? And if we are forced to Nicaragua as a final resort after all the scandal and expense of Panama, what will the people think of strenuousness and 'doing things?' Panama is pregnant with the greatest scandal in history, and the government is threatened with terrible retribution for its disregard of good morals in the preliminary stages of the undertaking."

The Last Word on Rockefeller.

The eagerly awaited conclusion of Miss Tarbell's character sketch of John D. Rockefeller is in McClure's for August. It builds upon the foundations laid in the first paper a clear and interesting estimate of the most significant personality in contemporary affairs.

Eminently calm, giving him always the benefit of the doubt, the real Rockefeller, judged by his deeds, is examined and compared with the man John D. Rockefeller lets the public see in the Sunday school, in philanthropy, and in business activity. His character is bared of all its pretences, that the lesson his life teaches may be plain.

In the years of Miss Tarbell's study of Standard Oil she has acquired minute knowledge of John D. Rockefeller's business career which gives her first advantage as his biographer, but it is through her marvellously rare and temperate view-point and her training as a historian, that this character sketch becomes a great and lasting work. The second paper leaves nothing to be said of John D. Rockefeller. It places him in his final relation to the history of his time.
